THE RAIN CAME

Farmers in the Bassano district had their prayers answered last weekend when 1.20 inches of rain fell, thus giving the crops a new lease on life. The hot weather combined with the drying winds will likely have cut the hay yield but grain crops appear to have stood the dry spell much better than might have been expected.

LOCAL CANCER DRIVE A SUCCESS

Returns from the 1956 Cancer canvass continue to roll in Mrs. Dave Ballyk, Crusade Manager at Medicine Hat told the Bassano Herald today.

The final returns from Bassano and district, where Mrs. J.R. Clark, Crusade Chairman, and her assistants Mrs. C.A. McKinnon, Mrs. A.M. Knight, Mrs. H. Stewart and Mrs. E. Bingham canvassed the Town, were $325.50 - the highest contribution ever recorded here.

Mrs. Ballyk wishes to thank the canvassers for their splendid help and co-operation, which they gave so willingly and so enthusiastically, and to those who contributed to the Cancer Fund. Also an expression of thanks to Mrs. J.R. Clark for handling and organizing the drive so efficiently.

Following is a list of those who donated $5.00 or over to the Fund:

BOARD OF TRADE REQUIRES HELP

The Stampede Committee of the Bassano Board of Trade has issued a public appeal for the men of Bassano and district to meet at the new Rodeo Grounds on Sunday, June 24th, starting at 9 A.M. to help build the bleachers and grandstand in time for use on July 2nd. The material for the bleachers has been purchased but time is running short and an extra effort must be made if these accommodations are to be ready for the stampede.

Building a completely new set of corrals, race track and the necessary buildings in one year has proved an enormous undertaking and the Committee is to be congratulated in succeeding in so nearly completing this project on time.

GEM NEWS

Mr. and Mrs. J. Bekker of Grand Forks, B.C. were recent visitors in the district. Betty Ennis, Mrs. Bekker's sister, accompanied them back to Grand Forks.

Tofield visitors over the weekend were Mr. and Mrs. E. Walde.

We are sorry to hear that Freddie Keeling is once again a patient in the Brooks Hospital. Everyone wishes him a speedy recovery.

Dale Purcell left for Olds on Tuesday, where he will be employed with the Temple Drilling Co.

Bob Collins of Calgary spent Saturday and Sunday at the home of his parents.

HOME & SCHOOL HONORS TEACHERS Contributed by Mrs. Rust.

The June meeting of the Bassano Home & School Association was held at the Bassano Dam on Monday evening in the form of a weiner roast in honor of the members of the teaching staff of the Bassano School. There were over forty members present and those who did not attend missed a most enjoyable evening. It was a lovely moonlight night and, with the sound of the water cascading over the dam in the background and everyone seated around a crackling bonfire, a mood of gaiety prevailed.

The election of officers was the main item on the agenda. The following executive members were elected to hold office during the coming school year: President, L.C. Spivey; Vice President, Hugh Pearce; Secretary Treasurer, Mrs. D. Davidson; Program Convenor, Mrs. E. Schelske; Finance Committee, J.W. Ratzlaff and D. Trapp; Membership Convenor, Mrs. J. Block; Social Committee, Mrs. Syroid, Mrs. C. Goring and Mrs. J. Jensen; Publicity Convenor, Mrs. D.E. Toole; Public Relations Convenor, Mrs. K. Rust.

After the business meeting, a weiner roast was enjoyed by all.

The teachers were called upon to express their reasons for entering the teaching profession.

The parents were then asked to write three desirable traits which they thought a teacher should possess.

After participating in a good old fashioned sing-song, everyone joined hands to sing "Auld Lang Syne"

BASSANO SWIMMING POOL OPENS SOON

The Bassano Swimming Pool will officially open for use by the public on Monday, June 25th with the Community Services Committee of the Town Council in charge of operating the pool.

Child should be taught safety rules to avoid farm accidents

Farms used to be considered the safest place to bring up children. While today they may still be safer than busy modern cities and industrial areas, there are many hazards on the farm because of the mechanization in modern agriculture.

In considering safety, the old saying, "Prevention is better than cure," holds true. The child, as soon as he is old enough, should be taught safety, and the parents would do well to insist on strict obedience to carefully explained safety rules. The parents' own example in observing safety rules has a big influence with the child. Discuss with children why they are not allowed to play or ride on machinery. Frequently a visiting child has an accident—explain the rules to any little visitor.

The small child should have a well equipped area in which to play, where mother can see him by glancing out the window. The play of any pre-school child should be supervised, so that you know where he is.

Teach small children to stay out of pens and pastures where there are mother animals with their young. Fear for the safety of their young can make animals dangerous.

For older children, wait until the child has judgment and is big enough to reach all controls easily before he is taught to drive a tractor.

Encourage the young person to go on to progressively harder jobs as he becomes more capable. Leave more difficult tractor work such as hillsides and highways for men.

Once there is equipment attached, there should be no one on the machine but the driver.

When farm equipment is being used, teach children to watch from a distance, from a fence, etc. Father or hired help are busy with running the machinery and may not notice a child in the area, and so may back or run over him accidentally.

Teach children, by word and example, to have respect for the power of machinery and that serious hazards are involved with use of it.

Handling a bull is dangerous and should be done only by competent adults.

Be sure abandoned wells and cisterns are covered securely.

The bottom rung of a windmill or silo ladder should be at least six feet from the ground.

Check the floors in barn lofts, have no holes through which children might fall—if at all unsafe, do not allow them to play there.

Keep all sharp tools where small children cannot play with them, and instruct older children in the proper use of them.

Think through the hazards which the farm may have for children. Take time to explain safety to the children. It isn't enough just to say "Don't". It is not very comforting after an accident to say "If only we had..."

"Of all sad words of tongue or pen

The saddest are these: 'It might have been'."

DANGEROUS PESTS

Houseflies increase at a very great rate. One female can, in seven weeks, be the founder of a family of 432,000. Each fly, in its wanderings over garbage and filth, can transfer millions of germs to the tables and persons of human beings, spreading disease germs and spoiling food. By thoroughly screening doors and windows, and by the use of reliable insect repellents, these pests can be kept out of the house. The screen door should be equipped with a good spring to keep it closed against flies and other insects.

So delicious, and so easy to make, too! For dependable results when you bake at home use fast-rising Fleischmann's Active Dry Yeast.

Rye Bread

1. Measure into bowl $\frac{3}{4}$ cup lukewarm water. Stir in 1 tablespoon granulated sugar. Sprinkle with contents of 3 envelopes Fleischmann's Active Dry Yeast. Let stand 10 minutes, THEN stir well.
2. Stir into yeast mixture $\frac{1}{2}$ cup warm water 2 tablespoons soft shortening $\frac{1}{2}$ cup molasses 1 tablespoon salt 2 teaspoons caraway seeds, optional. Stir in 2 cups once-sifted rye flour (light or dark) and beat until smooth.

Work in $2\frac{1}{2}$ cups (about) once-sifted all-purpose flour to make a stiff dough.

3. Turn out on lightly-floured board and knead until smooth and elastic. Place in greased bowl and brush with melted shortening. Cover. Let rise in warm place, free from draft, until doubled in bulk—about 1 1/2 hours.

4. Punch down dough. Divide dough in half. Shape each half of dough into a loaf. Place loaves, well apart, on a cookie sheet sprinkled with cornmeal. Cover with a damp cloth. Let rise until doubled in bulk—about 1 hour. Brush each loaf with a little cold water. Bake in a hot oven, 450°, 10 minutes. Reduce heat to moderate, 350°, and continue to bake until loaves sound hollow when tapped with knuckles—20 to 25 minutes longer. Yield—2 loaves.

Funny and Otherwise

There's a psychiatrist I know who sometimes gets the feeling that the whole world is bats anyhow, so why bother? A friend of his may have started him off on this idea—this friend was a young psychiatric student interning in a famous rest home. Every morning, the young student would pass by the psycho ward on his way to his own offices, and every morning he'd stop and watch one of the inmates, who was always winding up and pitching an imaginary ball.

One day my friend asked the student: "Why do you always stop to watch that guy who thinks he's Carl Erskine?"

"Very simple," the student said darkly. "If things go on the way they are, I'm going to be batting against that guy one of these days, and I want to get on to his curves."

A lecturer was describing the effects of continuous indulgence in the use of alcohol. He mentioned a case in which a man had drunk to excess for a number of years and was so saturated with alcoholic fumes that one night when he was blowing out a candle his breath took fire, and in a short time he died from spontaneous combustion.

One of the audience said that he wished to thank the lecturer for having saved his life.

"How have I saved your life?" asked the speaker.

"How?" replied the man. "No more candles for me. I'm going all-electric."

One of our neighbors spent the summer in France and was making it known as widely as she could.

"And Paris," she gushed, "Paris is marvellous. The people are all so educated and cultured, nothing crude as in this country. My dear, even the street cleaners speak French."

KING FOR A DAY From Allie's Annals

Wake up, pa, and express yourself, don't you know it's Father's Day? Stop blinking your eyes, we're serious. Folks all over Canada are talking about you; saying what a grand old duffer you are pa, that's what they are saying. If you got a hustle on mother may even let you go to church with her. Just between us, pa, I wouldn't feel too guilty about winning ma's hand over all those wealthy bank presidents who wooed her. Let's let bygones be bygones and go out on parade with her.

But look! Your shoes are all run down at the heels, pa, your suit is a bit on the seedy side and we'll be doggoned if you don't need a haircut. Heaven help us, look at your old fedora. It hasn't been cleaned or blocked in ages. How is the family to maintain prestige if you insist on going around presenting that dog-eared appearance? Please father, stop griping about your being tired. You only worked two shifts yesterday and after all who is going to pay for our new car if you don't put in a bit of overtime. Alright, alright, alright, so you are tired! Aren't we all? It was 4 A.M. when your poor family got home from that do, so you see you are not exactly a martyr.

Look pa, you'll have to spruce up, you're getting all round-shouldered and your eyes don't have that old sparkle any more. Candidly we've been noticing that of late you are dragging your feet. Remember you have only been with the firm for 35 years and consequently should still be in the pink. Hey, you are dozing again, can't you stay awake? Don't you appreciate the fact that it's Father's Day - your day?

Until the parade is over you're Mr. Big, so throw your chest out. Just to show the community what a power you are in our home we are going to let you drive the car today with ma supervising at the dual control of course. Yep, we're going to dress you all up like the Candy Kid. There's that orange tie we couldn't exchange last Christmas, you can get your socks half-soled, shine your shoes and maybe Junior will let you wear his shirt. Will you ever cut a swath!

Wake up pa, you're snoozing again. Listen, we have news for you! We picked a suit out for you down at uncle's and all you have to do is pay a dollar down and the rest in catch-as-catch-can installments. It may be a bit on the large side but it was the last one he had in stock and who are you to be fussy? You know pa, we would surely miss you if you were gone. You have such a way with the bill collectors. Ma's emotionalism only serves to infuriate them while the sight of your good old factory badge seems to soothe like a snake charmer.

Say pa, you're dozing again! --- Is your insurance premium paid up? -----

Editor's note. Pa did doze again and consequently he was a week late getting this thing printed!

FRIENDS By A.R.

I know you by the way you smile,
The way you clasp my hand,
The way you comfort me, and then
The way you understand.

The way you drive away my care,
The way you make me feel
That this old world is not too bad,
At least there's one thing real.

Friendship is a borrowed treasure
Each may share it's fullest measure.

OUR COMPLETE SHORT STORY —

love from daddy

—By EDNA CORNELL

PEGGY McNAUGHTON gazed through the window at teenagers strolling into the school grounds.

She watched the bobbing of coloured head-scarves and curls, and flashes of diamond socks as bare legs crossed again and again toward the hub of learning. Bicycles hurried along dirt paths. Laughter and girlish voices popped up everywhere.

Would her own small children one day step across the street into this structure of higher education? Or, was Terry to make the whole thing impossible, by refusing to fight the one thing which held him so securely in its grip?

Peggy turned from the window, where scrim curtains trembled against the ice-blue pane. She looked through the dinette where cigarette ashes lay on the maple table. She saw glasses standing in white rings of their own making, empty bottles with gold labels, black scuff marks on the linoleum.

Were her efforts worth while? Could a home be built on crumbling foundations?

She pussy-footed through the dinette, hating the dead ashes, the odorous bottles, the smoke-film on the windows. She went into the living room, not wanting to remember the smashed bottle on the hearth, or its reason for being there.

She thought of marriage, and Terry. Terry with his grasshopper moods, and bantering manner; his quick smile, and rough black hair. Terry was like one of these bundles of quilt pieces, full of surprises and disappointments; of brightness and ugliness.

The old minister had quoted: "For better or for worse." And he might have added: "Because there will be a fine little son and daughter, one day."

It might help to throw one's self across the bed and weep, as women do when seeking refuge. It might help to pick up that blue Chinese vase and send it smashing against the wall, but mothers didn't do that. They didn't seek refuge in befuddlement either. They just went on day after day, as if all the world were a beautiful serene place, and their individual hearts were not sore and heavy with grief. Peggy knew their little tricks of camouflage. They took extra precautions with make-up to cover up the tiny lines of strain etching firmly, oh so firmly, into youthful skin. They rubbed vaseline on eyelids to counteract the feverish shine in their eyes. And they dressed with care. Rundown heels and torn nylons were sure signs of weakening.

Peggy sank down on the mouse-grey chesterfield, cupping her chin in the ink-leather palms of her hands. The girlish chatter had ceased, and sparrows twittered unceasingly. A bus cruised by, followed by a cracking motorcycle.

In two and a half hours, Jackie and Barbs would be home, chattering wildly about their day at school. To them, life was a normal, happy affair, except for those occasions when they witnessed Terry's fall from his paternal pedestal. And because they were so ready to reinstate him, the break would be difficult.

But it must be done, and done now!

The realization called for action. She jumped to her feet and gathered up dishes and bottles. She would brush up ashes, vacuum the rug, put flowers on the table.

She would leave the home tidy as usual, but when she went out this time the door would be locked for the last time. There would be no turning back now. She and Terry had had their last quarrel, and any further conversation would be done before a lawyer.

This was the end of Mr. Terry McNaughton and his nonsense. He could rejoice alone, and repent alone. She'd had enough!

Rushing through the house, Peggy felt light-hearted, because at last she was standing up for her rights. She would find a job, and the children must accept a few responsibilities. An apartment would be difficult to locate, but one room and a gas plate would be fine for a start.

Wings grew to her slim ankles, now that she'd made her decision. The house was tidy again. Peggy stepped into the tiled bathroom, stripped off her clothes, pushed her golden hair under a plastic cap, and turned on the shower. She held up her face and her arms, letting the warm water wash away her weariness. She rubbed herself dry, and slipped into fresh underthings, and a tailored dress. Clothes and thoughts must be practical from now on, for she would be the breadwinner!

Never again would she be hoodwinked by endearments and gifts! Terry, like Custer, had made his last stand, as far as she was concerned.

She screwed pearl studs to her ear lobes, and patted the golden waves of her hair. She smoothed the blue dress over her hips, easing away untidy lines, and pinned a clip to the shoulder.

It was then she heard the foot-steps running lightly up to the door, and the double chime murmuring through the house. Who on earth could that be at a critical time like this?

She opened the front door, warily, and saw the florist's boy in blue uniform. He saluted smartly and handed her the box. She took it to the kitchen and opened it on the table, folding back the pink tissue. Nestling in maidenhair fern, there was a white card.

Peggy was still cradling the flowers against her face when the children burst in the back door. Jackie flung down his books, and with typical male unconcern, sniffed: "Flowers, huh? Gee, I'm hungry!" His world was still secure.

Barbara stole up, soft eyed and gentle. "Ooo. Aren't they pretty, Mum?" Then her blue eyes mirrored concern and anguish. Her lips trembled slightly. "Mommy," she whispered, "you're crying!"

Peggy swallowed with difficulty. She looked at her daughter's anxious little face, blurry through tears. "Crying? Oh, no, Honey. You see these flowers are still damp with dew. I just got a little water on my face."

"Are those flowers little kings wrapped in ruby velvet, and sparkling with diamonds? You told me that once."

"These are little messengers from the king."

"You look so pretty, Mommy," Barb said, fascinated.

"Do I, dear? I guess that's because I want to look extra nice when Daddy comes home tonight," softly said Peggy, treasuring the card from the box:

"Love from Daddy."

FRENCH WATERWAYS

The Seine, the Loire, the Garonne and the Rhone are the four most important rivers in France.

LIGHT HOUSEKEEPING: Eddie Holstein is a laundry specialist. His job is to keep the six shining—the White Sox, that is. The Chicago, Ill., electrician keeps the floodlights polished at Comiskey Park. Safety-wise readers need not be perturbed at his method of ascending the light tower. Eddie's posing outside the girders for better pictorial effect. He actually ascends the ladder in the approved manner.

Strictly Fresh

He who digs dandelions gets to the root of the argument for abolishing summer.

The "all expense" in the phrase "all expense-paid vacation" stands for all the expenses you must pay to fully enjoy your vacation.

During the carnival season, the difference between a hot dog and a frankfurter is usually about 25 cents.

Why do the people who are allergic to fresh air ALWAYS occupy the window seats on buses these hot summer days?

A horrendous mistake is how you define the trivial error you often make when it's perpetrated by the other fellow. 3199

Jane Ashley Says

"Corn Starch Makes Smoother Sauces!"

FISH 'N' SAUCE

- 1 pound fish fillets
- 1 tablespoon butter
- Few grains salt
- 3 tablespoons BENSON'S or CANADA Corn Starch
- ¾ teaspoon salt
- ½ teaspoon pepper
- 1 ½ cups milk
- 1 egg yolk, beaten
- 2 tablespoons lemon juice
- ¼ cup MAZOLA Salad Oil
- Cooked green vegetables

PLACE fish in shallow baking pan; dot with butter. SPRINKLE lightly with salt; bake in hot oven (425°F.) for 20 minutes.

MIX BENSON'S or CANADA Corn Starch, salt and pepper in a small amount of milk until smooth. STIR in remaining milk; cook over low heat, stirring constantly, until mixture thickens and boils.

BOIL 1 minute; stir constantly.

REMOVE from heat and gradually add to egg yolk. RETURN to heat and cook 2 minutes, stirring constantly.

REMOVE from heat; slowly beat in lemon juice.

ADD MAZOLA beating until smooth.

ARRANGE green vegetables around cooked fish.

COVER with sauce and serve immediately.

Bassano Baseball teams continued their winning ways again this week.

In the E.I.D. Senior League, Bassano visited Scandia on Sunday and took the large end of a 17 to 12 score.

Rockyford played at Bassano on Sunday in a Pony League fixture. Ron Helwig pitched for the local team and practically won his own ball game by striking out 15 batters and then hitting for a home run and a triple. Final score was 5-2.

George McCallum is spending a few days in town on a business trip. He has been living at Elnora since leaving Bassano.

LAC Leslie McPhee is visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. "Pat" McPhee for a few days. He is stationed with the RCAF at Churchill, Man.

Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Pearce motored to Calgary on Sunday and visited their relations.

Don't forget the Ladies Altar Society Home Bake Sale in the Pioneer Meat Market on Saturday, June 30th.

Postmaster W.J. Redmond advises that a change in postoffice hours will come into effect on July 3rd. Office hours will be 8:30 A.M. to 5:30 P.M. Wednesday hours will be 8:30 to 12:30. The lobby will remain open as usual for box holders.

The Pioneer Meat Market is the latest business building on Main Street to receive a "face lifting" in the way of repairs and a coat of paint. An addition has been built at the rear of the building and the interior of the premises now looks invitingly fresh and new.

Be sure to sign your application card in favor of the T.B. X-Ray clinic when the canvassers call. The aim of the local committee is to get 100% attendance of the Bassano citizens at the clinic so that Bassano may be classed as a T.B. free town. The X-Ray clinic does not cost the citizen one cent of his money and not more half an hour of his time so PLAY SAFE BY BEING SURE that there is no T.B. infection in your family or your neighbor's family.

All signs point to a bigger and better Bassano Stampede than ever this year. The new stampede grounds will be ready for the show and the grounds have been planned to be more convenient for the crowd. Be sure to see the Show on July 2nd and take in the Big Dance at night

Add pep to your legs

Athletes taking part in a long baseball double-header, a track meet or a day of golf or tennis have to use their legs a lot, and they often find that they lose their pep, speed and agility as the afternoon wears on. Here's a hint that will help you beat this problem.

Whenever you have the opportunity to rest, try to find something on which you can prop up your legs—the higher the better.

By propping your legs up over your head this way you make the heart's job of replenishing the blood in the legs much easier, since blood circulates from the heart, through the legs and back to the heart. If the legs are not propped up, the heart has to work against gravity to do this job—and it's an important one if the legs are to remain full of life during the long day's activity.

Loose shoulders mean more hits

In baseball one of the most valuable assets a player can have is ability to get hits when it counts, such as when there is a man on base.

To often, batters at the plate with a man on base develop tension in their anxiety to get a hit. This tension is especially noticeable in their jaw muscles and through the shoulders. But to do a good job at the plate, you've got to have a free, easy swing. Tension will spoil your swing and your timing.

So, remember, when you are at bat, and especially when you are hitting "in the clutch", concentrate on keeping your jaw and shoulders loose. Loose shoulders mean a smoother and easier swing and increase your chances for a hit when you really need it.

Avoid "no man's land"

The part of the tennis court halfway between the net and the baseline is known as "no man's land", and the biggest favor you can do your opponent is to get caught there.

India protecting national symbol

A family of Indian lions from the Gir Forest in Saurashtra, where live the sole survivors of the species of lions which once roamed Asia, is to be resettled in a forest in Northern India to ensure that the animal which is India's national symbol does not die out.

The government feared that some epidemic might destroy the few hundred lions left if they were kept only in one place and the wildlife board now has decided to settle a family of five or six in the Chakia forest, in Uttar Pradesh. If they thrive, families may be let loose in other forests.

Boldness downfall

The very boldness of Indian lions, which were plentiful a century ago, was their downfall. Big Game hunters found them a comparatively easy trophy, while the coming of the more stealthy tiger to India from the jungles of Burma and Malaya cut down the amount of game available as food for the lions.

Their numbers dwindled and a few years ago only about 200 remained in the Gir forest. Shooting was forbidden and the lions carefully protected. Their numbers began to increase and now there are believed to be about 400.

Foggy vapor feeds prized old redwood

"Old age assistance" in the form of a fog maker is being given a prized 1,110-year-old redwood, 160 feet tall, by its namesake, Palo Alto, Calif., states the Forest Gazette.

Water has been piped to a sprinkler in the tree top to water the doddering old grand-daddy twice a week in dry times.

The foggy vapor thus supplied creates the ideal climate of redwoods, and cleans city smoke and grit from its needles. As a geriatric tonic for the old landmark, small amounts of iron and nitrogen are to be added to the fog in hopes of tacking an extra 500 years on its life.

The huge redwood is said to have suggested the name of Palo Alto—which means "tall tree" in Spanish.

GEMS OF THOUGHT

THE PRICE OF LIBERTY

Eternal vigilance is the price of liberty. —Thomas Jefferson.

They that can give up essential liberty to obtain a little temporary safety deserve neither liberty nor safety. —Franklin.

God grants liberty only to those who live it, and are always ready to guard and defend it.

—Daniel Webster.

Discerning the rights of man, we cannot fail to foresee the doom of all oppression. Slavery is not the legitimate state of man. God made man free.

—Mary Baker Eddy.

I never could believe that Providence had sent a few men into the world, ready booted and spurred to ride, and millions ready saddled and bridled to be ridden.

—Richard Rumbold.

World Happenings In Pictures

WORLD'S LARGEST FLOAT CAMP—Few Canadians are aware that British Columbia boasts the world's largest float camp connected to the shore by cables but kept at a distance by poles. No one could live closer to sea-level than these people do. There's simply no room on shore for the logging camp with its shops, bunk houses and family homes. In this series of large rafts at Holberg, Vancouver Island, wooden sidewalks form the main street and the camp has its own community hall, store, school and health services.

INDIANAPOLIS SPEEDWAY CLASSIC—This chaotic scene in the Indianapolis Speedway classic shows spinning cars crashing into each other. Sam Hanks (4) and Keith Andrews (189) hang into each other. Troy Ruttman (53) spins into the inner apron and another car is spinning in background. Jim Rathmann (24) and Fred Agabashian (42), foreground, get safely past the mishap.

THE SORCERER'S APPRENTICE—"Sorcerer", at right, manipulates controls and his actions are duplicated exactly by weird-looking "slave". Obedient to his slightest movement, it helps young woman don her coat. No gadget intended for use in a science fiction movie, the master-slave manipulator is designed to perform mechanical tasks in dangerous radioactive areas, by remote control. It's a development of General Electric's general engineering laboratory at Schenectady, N.Y.

KNEELED: SHOCK ABSORBERS—Knoboy knees of air force personnel, left, attract a quizzical glance from Airwoman 2/C. Pat Pickett, right, at Manhattan Beach Air Force Station, N.Y. The three stalwarts model the new, abbreviated summer uniforms intended for base-or-duty station wear only. The men are, from left: Lt. Allen Claire; Lt. Larry Rappaport; M/Sgt. Vincent Anderson.

GILDING THE LILY: Actress Debra Padgett poses beside her luxury-class do-it-yourself project—a bejeweled 1956 model hard top. Debra is credited with applying the fake jewelry along chrome trim and on top of the car, all by herself. She says she had the auto painted a strawberry color "just like the velvet bedspread and drapes in my bedroom." Her bejeweled handbags provided the inspiration for the glittering finishing touch.

POLITICAL CARPENTRY—How to build a carpentered platform to support a political platform is learned by Republican National Chairman Leonard W. Hall, left, expert at hewing political planks, as he inspects site of the GOP's presidential nominating convention in San Francisco's Cow Palace. His instructor is Albert F. Roller, architect in charge of construction. Convention opens Aug. 20.
